The world doth move; so do we.

True, we were fired from the corner to which we are now moving, but we have got back into favor and will soon occupy our handsome new building. New stock? Well everybody well knows our former stock was pretty well disposed of. Everything entirely new, larger, better and greater variety of goods than ever before. Watch us build our displays in interior and in the windows and come and see us as soon as we open.

PORTO RICAN TALKS IN COURT

Court issued orders for an additional venire of jurors.

Judge Gear heard the first account of J. P. Kaebu, guardian of Lul Naahue-lua, a minor. The guardian was appointed eight years ago and only last month presented an account. It shows no receipts and an expenditure of $15 by the guardian. The ward is reputedly owner of three pieces of land at Wai-kiki, from which the guardian reports no income is being derived. The court having ascertained that the property is under occupation by adverse possession continued the hearing until steps have been taken to remove the cloud from the title.

Judge Humphreys admitted the will of Edward C. Macfarlane to probate, Henry Macfarlane, Geo. W. Macfarlane, Frew W. Macfarlane and Mrs. Florence Ballinger Macfarlane being appointed as executors and executrix without bond.

Chang Kim was appointed administrator in lieu of C. Lai Young, of the estate of Ahol, deceased, under $250 bond.

The report of Henry Smith, master, on the account of Mark P. Robinson and S. C. Allen, trustees of the estate of James Robinson, deceased, was confirmed and a master's fee of $100 allowed.

In the matter of the estate of James Hoare Jr., a minor, Lyle A. Dickey's report as master was confirmed.

CAPTAIN HANSON'S THREE SCORE YEARS

Captain J. C. Hansen of the fine new American schooner Otella Pedersen, which has just made her maiden trip to Australia and which will return to the Sound after discharging 1226 tons of Newcastle coal at this port, celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of his birth yesterday.

Captain Hansen is one of the old-time skippers and has a host of friends along the California Coast as well as in Honolulu. Last evening the genial navigator gave a dinner to a number of the captains in port. There were almost a dozen at the table and many a brave toast was drunk in sparkling champagne.

Captain Hansen is part owner of the schooner. The managing owner is John Pedersen. The vessel was built by Charles White in Everett, Wash.

Last night's birthday dinner was a most delightful affair and anecdotes of the lives of skippers and good old stories of the sea and famous ports of the world went around the festive board one after another in such hot haste that enough material could have been collected to stock a Carnegie library. The toasts were in many cases original and some of them brought down the house, for the celebrating captain practically owned the house for the time being. Then the guests trusted Captain Hansen's eleven children. This was responded to with great enthusiasm. Before the glasses were drained, however, after a whispered word with the host, the proposer of the toast corrected himself to toast Captain Hansen's "twelve" children.

OFF FOR LAYSAN.

The Fish Commission boat Albatross sails for Laysan Island at about noon tomorrow. She will be away about three weeks and on her return to Honolulu will resume her work of gathering specimens in Hawaiian waters. It is expected that the Albatross will be here until the first week in September when she will return to the Coast.
